CGMA support for the Coast Guard family is broad, deep, and firmly entrenched in our community. It is called ‘Mutual Assistance’ because it is, at its core, Coast Guardsmen taking care of our own. Through your donations and leadership, CGMA takes care of the organization today, so the Coast Guard family can rely on it tomorrow. Together, we can ensure that CGMA remains strong and ready for the next set of unexpected challenges.

Karl L. Schultz
Admiral, U.S. Coast Guard
Chairman, Coast Guard Mutual Assistance

I am pleased to announce our Annual Coast Guard Mutual Assistance (CGMA) Fundraising Campaign is in full swing. At times, life is unpredictable, and most of us have faced a personal financial crisis at one time or another: a major and unexpected car or home repair, a sick child, a pet’s injury, or death of a loved one.

We do not need to look far for assistance through these tough times. CGMA provides a tangible way to reach out and help our shipmates and coworkers through grants and no-interest loans.

Through the incredible support of each of you who participated in last year’s campaign, CGMA provided over $10,665,982 in disaster and emergency relief, $819,739 in family support programs, and $807,212 in education assistance in 2019. Well done shipmates!

If you already support CGMA, we thank you! For those of you who are interested in contributing, we encourage you to gain information from CGMA to keep our aid society strong.

Jason M. Vanderhaden
Master Chief Petty Officer of the Coast Guard
Coast Guard Mutual Assistance Board of Control